

2022 COURSE

Pregnancy Choices Training

Learn how to provide support and information through a greater understanding of pregnancy choices.

This 2-day training explores the options available for pregnant people. It will cover the issues and topics that people may experience when choosing to either continue or not continue with their pregnancy.

The course is open to nurses, midwives, doctors, counsellors, community health workers, school counsellors, youth workers, Aboriginal Health Workers and any professional who may work with clients who are pregnant.

Participants will:

- discuss the social and political context of unintended pregnancy and choices
- consider the cultural implications of unintended pregnancy inclusive of an Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander and Culturally and Linguistically Diverse perspective
- learn about family and domestic violence and reproductive coercion in the context of pregnancy
- develop further knowledge on surrogacy, assisted fertility and contraception
- explore a broader understanding of adoption, abortion, genetic counselling, perinatal mental health, young parenting and counselling responses to unintended pregnancy
